

English speaking countries.

Coming to different countries, which are located far from each other, we can hear the English speech everywhere. English became the World language. Everywhere people learn this language. Nowadays, all intelligent people are supposed to know English. By the way, English is not the most popular language. It goes behind Chinese. To be exact, mandarins. Anyway, we can surely say, that English is extremely popular in the World.

Initially, it all began in those countries, that later we started to call the English speaking ones. The countries, where English is an official language. There are about 80 English speaking countries.

- In Asia: India, Pakistan, Philippines and others.
- In Africa: Tanzania, Nigeria, Sudan, Kenia and many others.
- In Europe: Malta and others.
- In America. English speaking countries are Jamaica, Grenada, Barbados and others.
- New Guinea, Samoa and others.

You might have taken a note, that all countries above were British colonies in the past. Since XVIII century the Great Britain had been trying to influence the conquered countries not only in economic and military, but also in their culture and science.

However, not all people speak English in the English speaking countries. Very often it's just a little part of the country, those people, that live in big cities, got good education or work in tourism.

Anyway, English is a very popular language. People from all over the World learn it at schools. Many people learn this language every day and not only in the English speaking countries. English is widely used in politics and busyness. The most part of the World information people save in English.
