

«Check this out!» Что это значит?

Hello! In this short post I'm gonna tell you about a popular phrase which you for sure could hear a lot. The phrase is «Check this out» Do you know what this means?

It's a very good phrase if you wanna someone to find out more about something. For example:

Hey, Jack, check this out! It seems to be a good website!

(Here you want Jack to visit this website)

I've found this book! I'll check it out in awhile.

(You've found the book and you'll look it through in awhile)

It's such a wonderful movie! Check this out!

(You want your friend to watch the movie)

It's quite wrong to use this expression with animated object like people, animals, flowers etc. It's related to the information only.

I checked your letter out. It's very good!

I'll check your new project out tomorrow.

American people like this phrase very much. So I'm sure you heard it in their movies many times. And it's not a surprise, because American English differs much from British English. I wrote about the difference between them in the article «British and American English. What's the difference?»

Ok, here are some more examples:

I'll check your report out and tell you about my opinion.

Hey, I found a new restaurant! Let's check this out tonight!

I saw your message and replied. So, check this out.

That's it. Now you know about the meaning of the phrase "Check this out" in English. It's very useful and simple.

Hopefully, the post was useful for you. I have many interesting articles on my blog. So, check them out!

Keep learning English and take care!
