

Употребление фразы Here we go!

Hello everyone! In this article I'm going to tell you about a pretty good phrase «Here we go!». Do you know what it means? If you don't, let's clear it up!

In English, if you're about to start doing something you can say «Here we go!». In Russian we usually say «Поехали!». For example:

— So let's get started?

— Sure! Here we go!

Also in the conversation between native speakers pretty often you might hear:

- «Here you go!» means «here it is, I've found it for you»
- «Here you go» or «There you go» could also be used when someone asks you about something and before you have a chance to answer he answered himself.
- «Here you are» usually means «Well, you're here now». Or it could mean the same as «Here you go».

That's it my friends! Keep learning English and take care!
