

О разнице на английском

Hello guys! It's me with my English again. I hope you're not tired of my articles  First of all, accept my apologies for the incorrect working of my blog two days ago. And to be exact for bad displaying of the menu. I was trying to make it better, but as I'm not good in all this html stuff, I had some problems. But I've made it finally! And now you can see a new menu above. I think it's become more convenient and nice.

But for some reason it doesn't work well in Internet Explorer. But I promise you to work it out! Anyway let me recommend you Chrome browser. My blog works just perfect in it. So keep it in mind.

Ok, let's get back to English. In this article we're talking about such phrase as «What is the difference?», «It doesn't matter», «I don't care», «I don't give a shit». I'll tell you what they mean in English and how to use them properly. Here we go!
